

The Thunderstorms

AEMET's Library

<http://www.aemet.es/es/conocermas/biblioteca>

GOBIERNO
DE ESPAÑA

MINISTERIO
DE AGRICULTURA, ALIMENTACIÓN
Y MEDIO AMBIENTE

Agencia Estatal de Meteorología

A thunderstorm is a meteorological phenomenon characterized by the presence of lightnings and their acoustic effect: the thunders. They are associated with a type of clouds called cumulonimbus. The effects they usually bring are heavy precipitation and strong winds with gusts that can be very strong. In order to have a growing storm, the following ingredients are needed: moisture, atmospheric instability and a mechanism to make the humid air go up.

